

McDougall → Positive Science of the behaviour of living things. (Psychology)

Gestalt Psychologists - Psychology is the study of the whole, not the sum of its parts.
Stout - Psychology is the science of mental states and processes.
J. B. Watson - Psychology is the science of human behaviour.
Woodworth - Psychology is the science of the activities of the individual in relation to his environment.

Modern definition of Psychology - Psychology is the scientific study of behaviour and the mind.

Knight & Knight → Psychology may be defined as the systematic study of experience and behaviour - human & animal, normal & abnormal, individual & social.

(Modern Introduction to Psychology)